

intrion is proud to announce the latest phase in its continuing growth and development: its entity Dimaco, specialist in “inline checks”, will be regrouped under the single and unique brand name, intrion.

This is the direct translation of a need for increased agility and clarity and an ever more client-oriented approach.

Together, intrion’s 150 engineers will become a unified customer facing organization, in full alignment with intrion’s own vision of the future: the desire to cater to niches in the market and offer globally specific specialty expertise, as well as focus on offering effective solutions. Clients will benefit from the company’s “full solution lifecycle” coverage: from inline checks, picking, packing, labeling, palletizing to transport, storage, order picking and sorting.

“Dimaco is a true specialist in inline checks - a business that is 100% complementary to our existing EOL automation services. Inline checks are also a necessity for any client requiring further automation, so I believe clients will benefit greatly from this integration.”

Chris Vleeschouwers, Sales & Marketing Director, intrion

“In just two years intrion has grown organically to become one of Europe’s key industrial automation players with a footprint in Belgium, France, the Netherlands and the UK. I am convinced that our new organization will further enhance our synergy and our ability to offer the best possible solutions to our customers. Combined with an innovative strategy for solution development and further international growth, we aim to become the supplier of choice for large and medium sized companies across Europe. We are looking forward to an excellent 2010, in strong collaboration with existing and new customers.”
